SAFETY AND SECURITY

Tropical regards safety and security as a high priority. All of our employees have the responsibility to protect themselves, their colleagues, our equipment and our customers' cargo.

By keeping our ships well-maintained, having professional employees and conducting frequent training, we can obtain commercial and operational success.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

Tropical Shipping has implemented community relations programs to support the people and way of life in the communities of The Caribbean and The Bahamas which we serve, as well as play an active role in the local communities in which we operate.

As our company is present in more than 39 locations, we are involved in a number of projects including relief efforts and disaster management workshops, charitable fundraisers and a unique marketing program to help boost tourism in the islands.

OUR COMPANY AND HISTORY

The company was originally established in 1954 as a construction firm, Birdsall Construction Company, to perform work in Freeport, Bahamas. As business flourished, it became difficult to transport materials to the project sites, so the company pursued the shipping business to minimize expenses and became known as Tropical Shipping. In 1982 Birdsall Inc. was sold to NICOR Inc., (NYSE:GAS) an Illinois based holding company and in 2014, Tropical was purchased by Saltchuk, a privately owned family of diversified transportation and distribution companies headquartered in Seattle, Washington.

Today, Tropical Shipping is the leader in the ocean freight industry and the largest containerized carrier in the Caribbean region. From Canada to South Florida, we operate state-of-the-art vessel fleets and facilities in select seaside ports to meet customers logistics needs to and from The Caribbean and The Bahamas. With a worldwide client base, Tropical moves millions of tons of cargo throughout the world and employs approximately 1,100 employees, living and working in more than 20 international communities. Tropical's headquarters is located in Riviera Beach, FL.
